Like all crafts, nano tape takes practise. Our magic creations have star ratings next to each tutorial, so you can find one that's the right level for you. Start with 'magic', then progress to more complex tutorials as your confidence grows.

★ MAGIC

★★ SPELLBINDING

★★★ WOW!

Part of the magic of nano tape is that it's super, super sticky! To stop your tape from sticking to your table top, try laying down a sheet of baking paper or some of the discarded backing film before you get crafty!

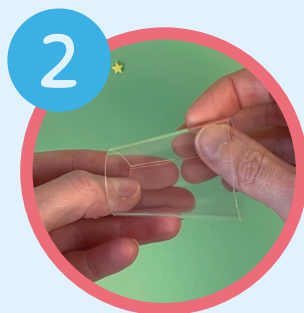

Nano magic doesn't last for ever. Have fun making lots of cute crafts and enjoy them while they last. Take lots of photos of your amazing creations to share with your friends. You could even try making your own tutorial videos. It's a viral trend, after all!

Remember, scissors are sharp! Always ask an adult to help you cut your tape. The nano magic might rub off on them, too!

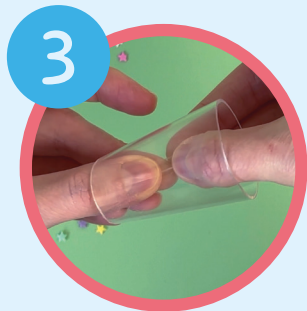

1

Cut a length of nano tape - around 14 cm is perfect - then trim each end at an angle.

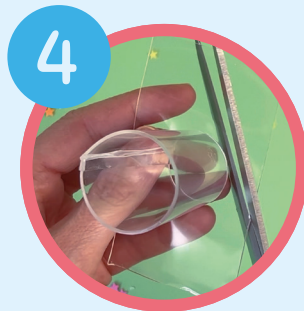

2

Wrap the nano tape into a cup shape with the sticky side facing inwards.

3

Cut a narrow strip of nano tape around 1 cm wide and press it along the inside join to make your cup secure.

4

Cut another length of tape and gently press the bottom of your cup onto the sticky side. Trim the edges into a circle to give your cup a base.

5

Carefully place some beads into the bottom of your cup, then top with slime and star sprinkles.

6

Take another length of tape and press the sticky side onto the top of your cup. Trim into a circle to give your cup a lid.

7

Carefully peel the film from the outside of your cup.

8

Use your felt-tip pen to draw a cute face. Add more features with extra shades, if you have them.

9

Peel the film from the top of your cup, then take the ear press-outs and stick them down.

10

Add the short length of straw to finish.

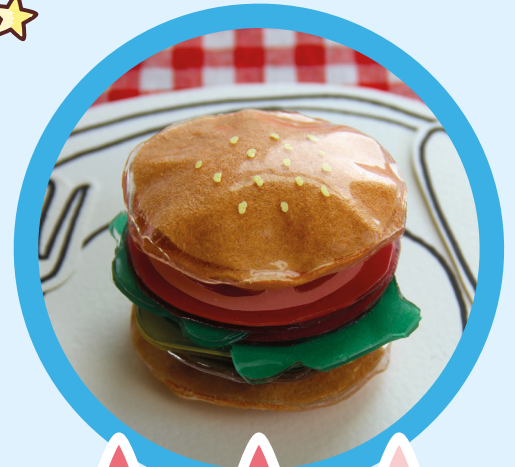

EVEN MORE MAGIC...

Try different slime shades to make your own unique creations.
You could even open a magic bubble tea café!

Remember, scissors are sharp! Always ask an adult to help you cut your tape. The nano magic might rub off on them, too!

1 Print out or copy the burger templates onto a piece of card. You could even draw your own ingredients, then shade them in, or cut them from card or paper in different shades.

2 Cover both sides of each ingredient in nano tape, then cut them out. Leave enough tape around the edges to keep the sides sealed.

3 Bun time! Cut two lengths of nano tape - about 6 cm is perfect - and lay them sticky-side-up on the table. Lay one bun on each piece of tape, then top one of them with a pinch of cotton wool.

4 Lay the second bun over the top and press the edges to seal.

5 Trim around the edges, leaving enough tape to keep the cotton wool sealed inside. Repeat steps 3 to 5 to make the other half of your bun.

6 It's time to build your burger! Peel the backing film from your ingredients and stack them however you like.

EVEN MORE MAGIC...

Use a felt-tip pen to add sesame seeds, or try creating your own ingredients by drawing onto felt or card. Felt is a good option for the bun as it has a little more give.

Try both and see what works best!

1 Cut a rectangle from white card - around 12 cm x 5 cm is perfect - then cover both sides in nano tape.

2 Cut a circle about 3 cm in diameter from yellow felt or card. Alternatively, try shading a piece of white card yellow - it will work just as well!

3 Lay a piece of nano tape sticky-side-up on the table. Press down your circle and a pinch of cotton wool.

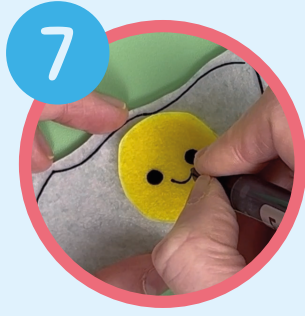

4 Cover this with another piece of nano tape, and press the edges to seal.

5 Trim around the edge of your circle, leaving enough tape to keep the cotton wool sealed inside.

6 Use your template to trim the egg white, then remove the backing film.

7 Remove the backing film from the yolk, then press it onto the white with the yellow side facing upwards. Use your felt-tip pen to draw a cute face. Add other shades, too, if you have them.

8 Serve your good egg sunny side up!

EVEN MORE MAGIC...

Try drawing lots more food and covering your creations in nano tape. Add felt or cotton wool to create cool 3-D effects. You could open your own nano magic diner!

Remember, scissors are sharp! Always ask an adult to help you cut your tape. The nano magic might rub off on them, too!

1 Cut a length of nano tape - around 18 cm is perfect. Fold it in half and seal along one side, leaving a gap in the middle.

2 Scatter sprinkles into the pouch.

3 Now push some slime against the sealed side.

4 Add your treat charms, a little more slime, and another pinch of sprinkles. Remember to leave enough space at the top and side to seal your bag afterwards.

5 Press the open side to seal your bag.

6 Peel the backing film off your bag so it's easier to mould.

7 Pinch the top to close.

EVEN MORE MAGIC...

Tie craft ribbon around the top of your bag to make it even more special.

Remember, scissors are sharp! Always ask an adult to help you cut your tape. The nano magic might rub off on them, too!

1

First, cut a length of nano tape - about 8 cm is perfect. Add a pinch of slime to the middle of the sticky side and press the edges to seal.

2

Remove the backing film to make your sweet easier to mould, and then pinch the sides to form your wrapper.

3

Twist the nano tape either side of the slime to form the ends of your wrapper.

4

Use your felt-tip pen to draw a sweet face.

EVEN MORE MAGIC...

Add a length of craft ribbon to each side of your sweet treat to make it extra special!
